PERSONAL INFORMATION

We do not collect personally identifiable information about you unless you knowingly provide it to us. "Personal information" may include your name, address, phone number and email address.

We will not sell your personal information to third parties. We will share personal information with third party vendors who act on behalf of the TCFF. For example, large mailings are prepared by a mailing service. These vendors are required to treat your personal information as confidential.

As a casual, unregistered visitor to our site, you can browse and learn about us without us collecting your email address or any other personal information. We use standard web server technology to collect technical information such as the name of your Internet Service Provider, its IP address, the name of your operating system (Windows, Macintosh, etc.), your browser type (Internet Explorer, etc.) the length of time you spend on our site during a visit, the pages you visit and so on. This information does not identify you personally.

COOKIES

We use "cookies" (small pieces of information stored on your computer) on certain parts of our web site. The cookies allow us to track your session, particularly when you access your fund account. We do not use cookies to collect any type of personal information or to extract any information from your computer.

SECURITY ONLINE

When you provide information through this web site, the transmission is protected by Secure Service Layer (SSL) encryption. Some common browsers, such as Internet Explorer, make it obvious when information is being passed in a secure manner by displaying either a completed key or a closed lock on the screen and "https" rather than "http" in the URL. You must understand, however, that the Internet is inherently insecure and no web site operator can guarantee that a web site is completely secure or "hackerproof." You use this web site solely at your own risk.

CREDIT CARD TRANSACTIONS

We use a service provider to process credit card transactions on our behalf. When you provide credit card information through our web site, your information goes directly from your computer to a server operated by our service provider. Our service provider uses your credit card information only to process your transaction and is bound by contract to treat all of your personal information as confidential. No credit card information is stored on our servers.

PRIVACY NOTICE CHANGES

We reserve the right to update and change the notice as we may deem appropriate.
