Right Here where your Employees Work

“For every $1 we’ve spent for the onsite nurse practitioner we’ve realized a return of $2.80.”

— Deb Priebe, Director of Human Resources, TIDI Products, Neenah

Wouldn't it be more efficient if employees didn't have to leave work because they don't feel well? They're not sick enough to be home – and they're not feeling well enough to perform optimally. That's why our nurse practitioners and nurses come to you.

Having a clinic onsite means employees don't have to leave work for a minor illness or injury. It also means you can offer a lower cost alternative, with immediate access, to medical care. For employees with chronic conditions, an onsite clinic provides early, easy support for controlling and improving health, avoiding more costly care later.

Additionally, our onsite providers treat and refer employees with concerning symptoms to experts, so illness can be addressed before it becomes critical. The result? Our onsite providers have helped patients avert heart attack, kidney failure and many other health conditions.

We track and measure ROI

It's a standard part of what we do – track, measure and report what you're getting for your investment in an onsite clinic. Results are remarkable.

Electronic connections

Everybody's got everything on a computer today, right? Wrong. Not everyone does. Especially not every healthcare provider. As one of the first in Wisconsin to throw out the paper and move to electronic medical records (EMR), we offer expertise and efficiency that makes our onsite clinic seamless for your employees:

- Tracking, measuring and reporting results, participation and activities of your programs.
- Providers across the care spectrum stay on the same page, coordinating and managing patient care.
- Easier, faster communication with providers.

What do you need?

There's no other work place, work culture or work force like yours. Your job is to make sure your team is as healthy as it can be, while managing costs. We get that. Our job is to learn about your company, understand your culture and your people, and respond to your needs. An onsite clinic is one sure way to improve employee health and produce real savings.
